

VoIP Phones

Linksys SPA 942 (2x Ethernet)

Dual RJ-45 10/100Mbps Ethernet Port
802.3af Power over Ethernet Support
High Quality, "Cisco/Linksys" Distinctive ID
Hi-Resolution, Backlit Pixel Based Display
128 x 64 vs. 128 x 48
Four Line Keys
Four Soft Keys
"Solid" Handset
Headset Port – 2.5mm
Full Duplex Speakerphone

Other Features Including:

Interoperability with Asterisk and other SIP based platforms
Excellent Voice Quality
Secure Calling via sRTP
Network Based Ring Tone Support
Call Transfer, DND, Conferencing, Call FWD, etc.
SIP B and Bridged Line Appearance Support
Remote Provisioning via HTTPS, HTTP, TFTP.

The Linksys SPA 942 is the phone we recommend most. It can handle four calls at once and is reliable and sturdy with excellent voice quality. But perhaps its biggest advantage comes in its two Ethernet ports, which enable you to run a single wire to your desk instead of two, saving space and keeping your desk organized.

Linksys SPA 941 (1x Ethernet)

(1) RJ-45 10BaseT Ethernet Port
High Quality, "Cisco/Linksys" Distinctive ID
Hi-Resolution Pixel Based Display
Larger Display vs. SPA841
128 x 64 vs. 128 x 48
Four Line Keys
Four Soft Keys
Solid Handset
Headset Port 2.5mm
Full Duplex Speakerphone
All SW Features of SPA84x Including . . .
Interoperability with Asterisk and other SIP based platforms
Excellent Voice Quality
Secure Calling via sRTP
Network Based Ring Tone Support
Call Transfer, DND, Conferencing, Call FWD, etc.
SIP B and Bridged Line Appearance Support
Remote Provisioning via HTTPS, HTTP, TFTP